

Real estate maven, 60, sues matchmaker after dates with guys who wanted to bed her, not wed her - and some who were simply 'actors'

Register with us in one easy step!

Ms Ruden, who is a top broker for Douglas Elliman, claims that Mr Easton's claims are 'a lie'. Instead, she claims, her six-figure fee saw her sent off on two dates with bachelors who only had an interest in short-term flings. One of the dates even questioned 'why she was pursuing marriage,' the suit says.

When it came to finding a soulmate one woman from New York was prepared to pay big bucks to find 'the one'. So imagine the shock and despair Audrey Ruden faced when after paying a matchmaker to do Cupid's work, she only met men who wanted one-night stands, instead of something a little more permanent. Now the

the process to move quicker than the challenges of matching a 60s-year-old woman warrant'

audrey ruden, who is a top broker for Douglas Elliman, claims that Mr Easton's claims are 'a lie'. Instead, she claims, her six-figure fee saw her sent off on two dates with bachelors who only had an interest in short-termv886tlf E